Chartered Building Surveyor

As a building surveyor, you'll complete detailed reports, known as building surveys; within which you'll identify defects and advise on repair, maintenance and restoration options. Projects can include existing buildings, buildings of architectural or historic importance and the development of new ones. You may implement preventative measures to keep buildings in good condition and look for ways to make buildings sustainable. Surveyors often have degrees in building surveying but graduates with other degrees can complete a Masters level qualification.
